

Group photo of committee members of 'UCSI Cares' Community Project and Salvation Army children.

UCSI students hold community project at nature park

KUCHING: UCSI Sarawak Campus students from the Faculty of Hospitality and Tourism Management organised their first community project of 2015 last Saturday at Sama Jaya Nature Reserve Park, Jalan Setia Raja, Stútong. They did it in collaboration with Salvation Army children and Sama Jaya Nature Reserve

More than 80 people including members of the public participated in the 'UCSI Cares' event.

A press release from the university said the activity was to enable students from its HE205 Events Operations Management (led by Ting Hui Bun) to undergo the experience of running a practical event. Also, conducting a community project in Sama Jaya Nature Reserve Park would encourage students and public members to appreciate the green environment of Kuching's first city forest park as well as to promote healthful living.

UCSI Cares community project manager Joan Law said it needed a lot of teamwork to organise an event smoothly and successfully and he was proud that his team had done just that.

UCSI students and Salvation Army children cleaning up the park.

He said he found the community project really meaningful and interesting as they had the opportunity to have fun working and interacting with the Salvation Army children especially in the cleaning up work, the Zumba, and the various types of games.

Activity leader Felix Lee said universities should organise more healthy activities of this sort.

The event was officiated by a representative from Sama Jaya

Nature Reserve Fedilina Ling.

UCSI Sarawak Campus offers degree programmes in Commerce, Event and Tourism Management as well as Hospitality Management and diploma programmes including those in the fields of Hotel Management, Culinary Arts and Leisure Management. The Centre for Pre-U Studies offers Foundations in both Science and Arts.

For more information on the courses, call 082-455255 or visit www.ucsiuniversity.edu.my.