

10th StudyMalaysia Education Fair for school leavers this weekend

KOTA KINABALU: With SPM and STPM results released, school leavers who are deciding on a course and a career path can make a date with the one-stop Study-Malaysia Education Fair at Suria Sabah Shopping Mall here, this weekend.

The 10th StudyMalaysia Education Fair on Saturday and Sunday is offering quality exhibitors who offer a wide variety of courses. Students will also be able to speak to experienced course counselors and attend a career workshop that helps them choose the right course of study.

School leavers can meet college and university representatives and learn more about the course curriculum, academic strength and facilities, career prospects, entry requirements, special financial aid scheme, and other services offered by the universities and colleges.

"If you are satisfied with the institution, you can even enrol on the spot," said an organiser spokesperson.

From private universities and colleges, these institutions offer pre-university programmes, diplomas, local degree qualifications, 3+0 degrees, dual-award degrees, twinning degrees, credit transfer degree arrangements, professional degrees, accounting professional qualifications, and many more.

Among them are AIMST University, Almacrest International College, Cosmo-point College, Kota Kinabalu

Cyberjaya University College of Medical Sciences, Erican College, International Medical University, International University of Malaya-Wales, Kolej Poly-Tech MARA, Kolej TAFE Seremban, and KPJ Healthcare University College.

Others are Limkokwing Institute of Creative Technology, MAHSA University, Malaysian Institute of Art, Open University Malaysia, Quest International University Perak, SEGi University & Colleges, TAS Institute of Oil and Gas, The Association of Chartered Certified Accountants (ACCA) (Accounting Professional Body), Tunku Abdul Rahman University College, UCSI University, UNITAR International University, Universiti Tenaga Nasional and University College Sabah Foundation.

Foreign university branch campuses like Newcastle University Medicine Malaysia and University of Southampton Malaysia Campus are also exhibiting.

They allowed students to pursuing a degree which means that you can obtain a foreign degree qualification (identical to that of the university abroad) without having to leave Malaysia.

For public universities, Faculty of Law, University of Malaya (UM), Universiti Kebangsaan Malaysia (UKM) and Universiti Malaysia Pahang (UMP) are also participating.

Visitors to the fair can also get a free and exclusive publication of the myCAREER handbook (Series 2), Student Financial Aid 2016 and '27 Fields of Study' pamphlet (while stock lasts).

The 36-page myCAREER handbook (Series 2) will be given out to Form 5/Form 6/UEC school leavers. The handbook aims to help school leavers to find out which careers are a good match for their personality style and consequently, identify suitable courses to pursue.

In addition, student visitors can also get a first-of-its-kind pamphlet containing a description of '27 Fields of Study' which introduces them to the diverse disciplines of study at tertiary level.

The 'Student Financial Aid 2016' provides the latest information about fee-waiver schemes offered by the exhibitors, scholarships offered by government agencies, NGOs, and more.
